

MANY WORKERS NOW IDLE LABOR REPORT SHOWS

Columbus, July 11.—That employment conditions in Ohio were by far worse during the fiscal year ending June 30 than for that terminating June 30, 1923, is evidenced in the annual report of the labor statistics division to Herman R. Witter, industrial relations director, under whose supervision the state-city free employment agencies in the Buckeye state's principal cities function.

Applicants for work were more numerous since July 1, 1923, than during the year prior to that date, and placements were fewer, the report states.

Total registrations at the state-city employment offices during the fiscal year just ended amounted to 584,370, as compared with 467,631 persons having asked for work from July 1, 1922, to July 1, 1923. This shows that there were 116,739 more idle workers in Ohio after July 1, a year ago.

Placements in the last fiscal year totaled 220,087 against 257,555 the year previous, indicating that 37,508 fewer persons were supplied with employment during the last 12 months than or the like period dating back from July 1, 1923.

In the farm and dairy classification 480 persons were given work since July 1 a year ago. This was an increase from 2,999 in the year preceding that date.

Male applicants for work in Ohio during the year have numbered 398,188, exclusive of the farm and dairy workers, of whom there were 2,644, and women asking for work numbered 179,759. The percentage of placements among women proved greater than among men.

From July 1, 1923, until the close of that calendar year there were 264,121 applicants for work and 118,634 placements. From Jan. 1, 1924, until June 30, there were 314,556 persons seeking employment and 98,973 placements. This tends to show that there has been a decided slump in industrial activity since the first of the year, bearing out the reports that many plants have ceased operation entirely and others proceeding on part-time basis only. This has left 215,583 idle persons in the state over the six-months period, while there were only 145,587 idle in the six months previous.

Problems of placing Ohio's idle in employment have been greatest in Cleveland. Records show that 120,751 men and 60,135 women applied for work since a year ago, and 34,927 men were given jobs and 27,014 women supplied with work by efforts of the personnel of that branch. An idle list of 120,945 was left, however.

There were 55,407 male applicants in Columbus and 33,103 females, the records disclose, while placements among the males numbered 18,218 and among females 18,865. These figures place Columbus second in the list of unemployed, a job having been found for only one in each three of the male applicants and two for each three female applicants.

Male applicants at Cincinnati totaled 21,320, with 10,634 placements, and female applicants numbered 23,616, of whom 9,988 were given jobs. At Youngstown 16,546 men sought work and 7,250 got it, while 18,764 women sought employment and 8,067 were provided with it.

Reports from the Akron employment office indicated it ranked third during the year with the volume of work, 62,200 males having asked for work there and 17,267 women applying also. Placements among males amounted to 15,332 and among women 7,595. Dayton took fourth place, with male applicants numbering 56,252 and females 14,568. At Dayton jobs were available for 15,279 men and 6,124 women.

In Toledo 44,066 men asked for work and 19,919 were given it, while 8,336 women sought employment, with 4,456 successful in obtaining it.

SOLDIERS BLINDED BY OLD CARTRIDGES

Mexico City, July 11.—Fifty or more federal soldiers were blinded when eight millimeter cartridges, brought from the United States for use in Enfield rifles during the recent De la Huerta revolution, exploded, according to Lieutenant Colonel Jose Ortiz, chief of staff of General Arnulfo R. Gomez, commanding the city garrison here. It was previously stated that several soldiers had lost their lives due to some explosions. The responsibility is attributed to Mexican agents sent to the United States to buy ammunition. It is said they bought the oldest stock in order to collect the largest possible commission.

Diamonds Missing.

Cleveland, July 11.—Diamonds valued at $2,300 disappeared from a cache in a truck in which her household goods were being moved, a woman reported to police. When the truck arrived at its destination the package was gone.

CHILD IS DROWNED

Newark, O., July 11.—Andy Pushea, aged 8 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pushea, of Union Station, near here, was drowned in Ramp creek yesterday. The body was recovered late last night.

JAPANESE BOYCOTT OF AMERICAN-MADE GOODS IS ON.

This sign appeared in front of a big Japanese shop in Kobe, Japan, until the police compelled the proprietor to remove it. It shows, however, the keen hatred of America caused by the immigration exclusion law passed by Congress. The Japanese character below the fist stands for a badge, which the Japanese consider the embodiment of stealth and cunning.

President and Wife Return After Sad Trip to Vermont

Washington, July 11.—The President and Mrs. Coolidge, their son John and the President's father, John C. Coolidge, remained in seclusion at the White House following their return from Plymouth, Vermont, where Calvin Coolidge Jr., was buried.

After calling off the cabinet meeting, the president finally decided to meet as usual with the members of his official family. Other engagements were cancelled, however.

Washington, July 11.—The President and Mrs. Coolidge returned this morning to Washington from Plymouth, Vt., where yesterday afternoon they buried their younger son, Calvin Coolidge, Jr.

Colonel John Coolidge, the President's father, accompanied him, coming to the capital for the first time since his son became president.

The presidential special reached the Union station here at 7:15 a.m. and the President and Mrs. Coolidge motored immediately to the White House.

In careworn faces and drooping figures, both gave evidence of the suffering which they have undergone during the past week in the death of their son and the long journey to Northampton and Plymouth for the funeral and burial.

The plans of the president for the immediate future are still uncertain but it is understood that he desires to

La Follette Men
BEGIN TO IRON
OUT DIFFICULTIES

Washington, July 11.—With the Republican and Democratic standard bearers already in the field, backers of Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent candidate for the presidency, will start immediately to iron out the few remaining difficulties, which must be disposed of before his campaign gets formally under way.

The two major problems confronting "Fighting Bob's" supporters are the selection of a vice presidential candidate and the raising of a substantial campaign fund that will enable him to conduct a vigorous campaign for electors in every state in the union.

Both problems will come in for discussion at a meeting here tomorrow of the executive committee of the national committee for Progressive Political Action which has been selected to conduct the La Follette campaign.

The meeting tomorrow will be followed by a meeting of the full committee here one week from today at which it is expected the vice presidential candidate will be formally inducted.

The time intervening between the two meetings, it was stated today by William H. Johnston, chairman of the committee, will be used in sounding out the various men considered acceptable for the post as to their willingness to run.

The man selected will have to be endorsed by Senator La Follette himself.

GOMPERS ILL BUT NOW IMPROVING

New York, July 11.—The condition of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor is improved, his secretary announced today from the Hotel Shelburne, Coney Island, where the 74 year old labor leader has been under treatment for a nervous breakdown.

Gompers was brought to the hotel from a New York hospital. It was reported that the veteran labor chief was seriously ill.

PEACE MOVE IS SEEN IN ACTION OF PREMIERS

Paris, July 11.—An agreement on the experts' plan and the subject of reparations has been reached by Premier Edward Herriot of France and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain.

The agreement is hailed here as a real move toward peace in Europe.

Premier MacDonald made the most concessions, going far towards surrendering his position that the experts' report goes beyond the treaty of Versailles. But he saved the proposed inter-allied conference, which will be held July 16, as planned.

One thing the premiers agreed upon heartily and that was to make a concerted effort to have the United States name an official member of the reparations commission, and that the supervising director of reparations under the experts' plan should be an American.

The league of nations has been officially informed by the United States government that it can not adhere to the draft of the treaty of mutual assistance which the fourth assembly of the league voted should be circulated among all the governments with the request for expression of their views.

Holding that the fundamental principle of the treaty is to provide guarantees of mutual assistance and to establish the competency of the council of the league with respect to any decisions contemplated, the United States government says that in view of the United States constitution and of the fact that America is not a member of the league, the United States would find it impossible to give its adherence to the treaty.

The communication from Washington adds that the United States government has not failed to note that under article 17 of the treaty any state may give its partial adherence provided it is prepared to reduce its armaments in conformity with the treaty, but it thinks that it would not serve any useful purpose to consider the question of conditional or partial adherence when the conditions imposed "would of necessity" be of such a character as to deprive adherence of any substantial effect.

Two are Drowned

Columbus, O., July 11.—Vincent Nuzzo, 19, and Jacob Hellman, 16, were dead today, having lost their lives while swimming. Nuzzo lost his life in a creek and an hour later Sheriff's deputies were notified that Hellman had drowned.

Plane Falls; Three Killed.

Lancaster, O., July 11.—An airplane carrying passengers crashed to the ground here, killing three persons and injuring the pilot, Edward Behmer. The dead: Edward Bowman of Lancaster; Reuben C. Saul and R. E. Meckman of Reading.

Valley Field, Que., July 11.—With a smile on his lips and with the declaration to his mother that he "had made peace with his Maker," Walter Muir, 21 year old student of New York, went to the gallows and was hanged at 8:35 o'clock this morning.

Shortly before he died, he assured his mother, in a pathetic farewell in the Valley Field jail that he "would pray for her always."

Muir was hanged for the slaying of Henry LaVirollette, whom he killed during a drunken brawl last September. Muir said he was trying to protect a cripple when he shot LaVirollette.

There had been a pathetic scene between mother and son a short time before the boy went to his death. For weeks the mother, Mrs. May T. Muir, a little widowed New York dress-

DAVIS TO STUMP MIDDLE WEST HE TELLS LEADERS

New York, July 11.—John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for president, addressed the members of the Democratic national committee here.

It was a movement to restore party harmony, Davis told the committee-men that all differences must be buried immediately, and that the party must be united for concerted action in the coming campaign. The committee acclaimed him enthusiastically for his unprecedented action in making a direct appeal to them in their meeting, which was called for the purpose of reorganization under the new leadership.

The committee followed the desire of Davis and did not select a new chairman, as is the usual custom. Adjournment was taken subject to the call of the present chairman, Cordell Hull. Reorganization will not be undertaken until a decision as to whom Davis desires for the chairmanship has been made.

Frank L. Polk, manager of the pre-convention campaign, has declined to accept the post and Davis does not wish to be placed in the position of attempting to overthrow the present machinery immediately.

Davis himself extended the olive branch to the leaders who had fought him and in his first pronouncement after his nomination called upon the party to unite.

The ascension of C. W. Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan, to second place on the national ticket also was planned to close the rift between the Commoner and Davis. Religious differences, which were so bitterly fought out, were hidden behind the veil of the past, and all the unsuccessful candidates gave assurances in varying degrees of co-operation.

Governor Smith, who was not permitted to address the convention as a candidate, but who came before it as governor of New York, after being defeated, was the first to extend his promise of support to his victor.

William J. Bryan also agreed to bury the hatchet. While the new Democratic nominee was receiving newspaper correspondents, the Commoner, who had attacked Davis in the convention, appeared and they shook hands cordially. Davis told Bryan he was counting on him for help, and Bryan replied he was glad to do anything he could.

Davis indicated he contemplates waging a vigorous campaign in Ohio. He said he probably will make a "swing around the circle," and will also devote much time to the middle west.

Selection of Governor Bryan for second place was made only after the Democrats had been twice turned down by prospective candidates for the vice presidency. Senator Walsh of Montana, Davis' first choice, in a letter to the convention, formally refused the offer, stating he could best serve his party by running for reelection to the senate. The name of Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa was withdrawn after he had refused to run with Davis on the ground that he was too conservative to appeal to the agricultural west.

As mayor of Lincoln and governor of Nebraska, Bryan forced lower prices in coal, gas, gravel and gasoline—always with the club of municipal or state sale held high over the head of the offenders.

Bryan was born at Salem, Ill., on Feb. 10, 1867. He attended the University of Chicago. He was elected governor of Nebraska in 1922.

BURKE WILL TALK AT KLAN MEETING

Senator J. F. Burke, Elyria, O., newspaper publisher, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Ohio, will give an address on "The Christian Man and Politics," at a meeting of the Greene County Ku Klux Klan, at Keiter's Grove, south of Xenia, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The meeting is announced as open to the public. Senator Burke delivered an address at the Klan tabernacle on East Third Street, several weeks ago.

1,500 RENDERED HOMELESS IN FIRE AT MESSINA ITALY

Students Held Responsible For Blaze That Starts In High School—220 Buildings Are Destroyed.

Messina, Italy, July 11.—Fifteen hundred persons were made homeless and 220 buildings destroyed in a fire which started in a high school here today.

The authorities believe the fire was started by students as a protest against the severity of their professors.

The flames spread rapidly from the high school to a large number of wooden buildings which had been erected after the earthquake.

Troops were called out to assist the firemen. The blaze was spectacular and required hours to get under control.

Thirty six persons were injured during the conflagration.

WORKERS PARTY TO RUN COMMUNIST FOR PRESIDENT IN 'CLASS STRUGGLE'

Chicago, July 11.—Plans for furthering the candidacies of William Z. Foster, leader of the communists, in America, whom they unanimously endorse for the presidency of the United States and Ben Gitlow, New York Socialist, his running mate on the "class struggle versus capitalism" platform were discussed here today as delegates to the national convention of the workers party of America, prepared to leave for their homes.

The convention named its ticket following a meeting of the executive committee of the national Farmer-Labor party at which it was decided to definitely spike the nominations of Duncan McDonald, of Springfield, Ill., the presidential candidate and William Boucke, of Washington, candidate for vice president, who were named at the Farmer-Labor convention at St. Paul, June 17.

Withdrawal of the St. Paul candidates had been demanded by William Mahoney, chairman of the Farmer-Labor Party of Minnesota, who urged the endorsement of Senator Robert M. La Follette by his party. A split in the executive committee, however, resulted in the endorsement of the workers party candidates. This endorsement was given over the signatures of Alexander Howat, chairman and a majority of the executive committee.

Foster announced today that his party will run their candidates nationally in the states and locally wherever it is possible to have their names put on the ballots.

The workers party is said to be the communist political organization in this country and its present ticket is the first ever put into the field by it as a separate organization.

ONE KILLED AND TWO INJURED IN SHOOTING AFFAIR

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—One man was shot to death, a woman was probably fatally injured and another woman was slightly hurt on the street in downtown Philadelphia during the noon hour today while thousands of persons looked on.

THIRTY FIVE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

New York, July 11.—Thirty five passengers were injured when a Fifth avenue bus was struck by a speeding sedan car at Riverside drive early today. As both vehicles skidded toward the curb, the bus overturned on top of the automobile.

Two passengers in the sedan were pinned underneath the bus. Many passengers riding on the top of the bus were hurled to the street. Those inside the bus were thrown through the windows.

FEES FIXED FOR RECEIVERS OF CO.

Cleveland, O., July 11.—A suggestion that fees aggregating $200,000—$50,000 each for the receivers and two attorneys—be paid out of the assets of the Cleveland Discount Company was contained in the report of the receivers on file in common pleas court here today.

Common stock of the company is worthless, receivers said.

The receivers recommend that the offer of a settlement made by Josiah Kirby, former president and founder of the company in which he proposes to settle claims aggregating $1,500,000 be accepted.

Judge Homer Powell, to whom the report was made, said he would announce his decision next week.

PARTY LEADERS DO NOT ENDORSE MAN

Columbus, July 11.—Republican organization leaders of Ohio's big cities were in conference here with State Chairman C. W. Montgomery. A general plan for the Republican state campaign was the principal topic of discussion. Montgomery denied that there was any attempt to concentrate the support of the cities behind any one of the Republican gubernatorial aspirants. He said:

"The governorship was discussed along with several other topics, but there was no serious consideration given to any one candidate. The conference was merely a meeting of the party leaders which would naturally follow the Democratic convention and the general subjects discussed were national affairs."

The fact that former Governor Harry L. Davis arrived in Columbus simultaneously with the organization leaders and that George E. Harris, Davis' opponent for the governorship, came at the same time, was regarded as having some political significance.

CAN NOT IDENTIFY SLAYER OF COI

Columbus, O., July 11.—Police today were in a quandry over the "identifications" of John Williams, negro, the slayer of Patrolman Andrew Stormont, here recently.

Williams was arrested in Cleveland. A street car motorman, who witnessed the shooting of Patrolman Stormont, first declared Williams was the man who fired the fatal shot. Several hours later, he appeared at police headquarters for another view of the prisoner and expressed the belief that Williams was not the police slayer. Additional witnesses were being sought.

REV. DAVID POWERS NAMED PASTOR OF ST. BRIGID'S CHURCH

The Rev. David Powers, now pastor of the Catholic Church at Milford Center, Ohio, has been assigned to the pastorate of St. Brigid's Catholic Church of this city, it is announced.

The assignment was made this week by Archbishop Henry Moeller of Cincinnati, but the time for the pastoral transfer was not given. The Rev. John E. Kuhn, acting pastor of St. Brigid's Church, has not yet been officially advised of the change or the time when he will be relieved of the pastorate here.

The local pastorate was vacated with the transfer of the Rev. A. A. Burke, pastor here five years, to Corpus Christi Church, Dayton. At that time the Rev. Father Kuhn, assistant at Corpus Christi, was transferred to this city as acting pastor pending a permanent appointment.

The Rev. Father Kuhn has not yet been advised where he will be assigned on leaving Xenia.

MODIFIES COURT ORDER TO PERMIT COMPANY TO MOVE

Common Pleas Court has modified the restraining order issued against The Jantha Light and Fuel Company, with the consent of Ed Kagey, receiver, in order to permit the receiver to terminate all service in "Old" Osborn, and to take up and remove all appliances, including all high pressure lines from part of the regulator house located in "New" Osborn.

However, this temporary injunction will not effect the obligation on the part of the receiver or the Jantha Company to furnish gas in the "New" Osborn site, if any exists.

The Jantha Company obtains its supply of gas from the Logan Gas Company and furnishes several towns, including Yellow Springs, Osborn and Greenville, with fuel.

Some time ago the Logan Company which obtains its supply from West Virginia, encountered difficulty in acquiring the gas. As a result, the fuel supply of the Jantha Company was stopped indefinitely.

Consequently, the village of Yellow Springs filed suit in Common Pleas Court against The Logan Gas Company and The Jantha Light and Fuel Company, with the result that the court issued an injunction against the Jantha Company, restraining it from stopping the supply of gas.

U. S. ATHLETES INCREASE LEAD

Paris, July 11.—The United States won the first three places in the pole vault on the fifth day of the Olympic games.

Lee Barnes, Hollywood (Cal.) high school, won the pole vault from such performers as Glenn Graham of California Tech and James K. Brooker, University of Michigan, who were second and third, respectively. Ralph Spearow, University of Oregon, won sixth place. The winning height was 12 feet 8 1/2 inches.

The Yankee athletes' performance in this event added 20 points to the United States totals for the games, giving America a comfortable lead over Finland, as Tootell and the other hammer throwers added 16 more points in their events.

Finland won two firsts, both to the credit of their wonderful runner, Paavo Nurmi, who scored 20 points for his country when he took first place in the 1,500 meters and followed this up with a victory in the 5,000 meters shortly afterwards. Nurmi broke Olympic records in both the 1,500 meter and 5,000 meter events.

The point score at the end of the fifth day was: United States 177, Finland 103, England 46 1/2, Sweden 24 1/2, France 13 1/2, Switzerland 10, Hungary 7 1/2, South Africa 5, New Zealand 4, Norway 4, Denmark 3, Canada 2.

STOCKHOLDERS IN STRAWN CO. WILL BE SUED FOR PAYMENT

Harry D. Smith, receiver for the Strawn Press Company, has been authorized in Common Pleas Court to file suits to collect 33 1/3 per cent of the total stock subscribed in the company, against a number of stock holders who are said to have refused to pay their subscriptions. The suits will probably be filed within several days.

The Strawn Press Company, formerly The Omnigraph Company of Des Moines, Iowa, located in Xenia a year ago in April, in the buildings then occupied by the Miami Cereal Company, Washington Street.

cause of the lack of sufficient capital to carry on business, the company went into the hands of a receiver. The Dury Press Company, of Dayton, which had turned over to the Strawn Company, a press to be used as a demonstrator, threw the local company into bankruptcy upon its alleged failure to give stock in payment. Some of the local stock holders raised sufficient money to take the company out of bankruptcy and Harry D. Smith, receiver, has been instructed by the court to collect unpaid stock subscriptions in order to raise sufficient funds to pay all obligations.

WHEELER THINKS DRIES WON THRICE

New York, July 11.—Wayne D. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti- Saloon league, said: "The wets were routed in all three political conven- tions. The advocates of beer appeared t the Republican convention at Cleveland with the advertised inten- tion of securing a plank in favor of beer. Their arguments were rejected. Not a single leader would support their cause. The Democratic conven- tion proved their Waterloo. They were deserted by those whose sup- port they had expected. The dry South and West resented the offered beer label. No one appeared at the independent convention to urge a beer plank. The rout of the nullifiers of the constitution was too complete. They were silenced. Law enforce- ment planks were adopted by both Republicans and Democrats."

MODISH MITZI—The Game's The Excuse For the Frocks

BY JAY V. JAY

Polly is trying to explain that she couldn't possibly have hit the ball where it was, and if her opponent were a man she might get away with it because she looks very charming in her cool summer dress. The frock is sheer white crepe with printed design of wild red cherries, and with black stripes to give the properly piquant touch.

It was Mitzi who declared for croquet. Tennis would have been too strenuous to permit her dress to be admired; and as she likes it herself she has an amiable weakness for the approval of others. Her frock is a tailored affair of white, boldly striped with yellow—the center stripe neatly continued down the waistcoat front.

Eleanor listens to the dispute placidly—she's ahead of them both so let them squabble! She has done herself rather well with a femininely frilled frock of white voile with pleated side panels and innumerable ruffles all pliqued with madonna blue. Between the ruffles are rows of hemstitching, also in color.

The Goofer is making a stern effort to referee this game with strict impartiality. Aside from the fact that he admires all three of the young women, and the other fact that croquet has never been one of his games, really, and the third fact that no one pays any attention to him—he is doing very well.

THE GIFT OF LETTER WRITING

I am going to quote for you, at first, the goodly part of a letter that came to me, recently, from a woman in the Middle West. A letter from a woman who is no longer young—a letter from a woman whose name will never be written in the hall of fame. But the letter of a woman who has helped many people in a very wonderful way. Who has helped because she possesses that rare gift—the gift of writing a splendid letter!

"When I was a very small girl," she says, in the beginning of her letter, "some one told me that the first time my father ever saw me, after I was born, he took my tiny right hand in his, fondled it lovingly, and said: 'She will be a good writer, some day!' He did not explain just what he meant—whether he thought that I would be a good composer or a good penman."

"My father's early death left me, as a baby, to be cared for by my dear grandfather—who tried to develop my father's prophecy by providing me with the means of writing. My grandfather often told me that one of the great trials of his own life had been that he could not write well enough to compose letters—and he was exceedingly fond of letters. He always made it a point to provide me with nice stationery and to pay the postage on any letters that I would write. In the yesterday stationary and postage were much more of an item than they are now! My grandfather's interest put me in the way of letter writing at a very early date and age—and now I can look back upon about seventy-two years of letter writing. I can not say how many little sermons I have written—I can not tell you how many times I have closed a letter with a short prayer!"

"There has always been a great demand for my help in letter writing. Especially during the Civil War was I called upon to write. At that time there were many persons of limited education—folks who could not even put words together. Poor, frightened mothers would come to me with an envelope and a single sheet of paper and ask me, quite tearfully, to write a note to their son Jimmy, or John, or Frank. Often they would offer to pay me, for writing. They would explain, so pitifully, that they had never attended school—and they would show me their poor hands, grown hard with toil. I am glad to say that I wrote every letter that I was ever asked to write. I am glad to tell you that I never refused to pen a note for some one else. They would ask me to write such homey letters—every little detail must go into them; the sort of things they would have talked of. Often I had to break the news of illness—and of death. Often I had the joy of reading that some loved one was on his way home."

"A note came to me, a few days ago, from a woman in California—telling me that she had found some of my old letters in a file that had long been locked away. They were letters that I had written and sent to England more than half a century ago. Postage, then, was twenty-five cents the letter! It made me happy to feel that something I had written had seemed worth keeping for so long a time."

"I still write letters. Some to friends. Many to strangers. I love to write, as I always have loved it. And, in closing this letter to you, I want to ask you to encourage other folk to do as I have done. To write letters—and then more letters! For a letter can bring comfort and cheer and happiness with it. It can do great good. It can lighten burdens and cement friendships!"

There are a number of my pen-and-ink friends who give of themselves by the writing of letters. I call to mind one dear lady who began to write letters to lonely people because she, too, was lonely. Because death had taken a loved one from her side and his going had left her with an emptiness of heart and a great deal of spare time. Her letters have helped many people over the hard spots in the road—have guided them through the dark places in life."

In my times of sadness and sorrow the letters of my friends—the friends that I know and the pen-and-ink friends—have seemed very wonderful to me. They have been like a shining light. Some of them have seemed as warm, as near, the spoken words of kind neighbors. Some of them have given me strength and courage. Some of them have enabled me to look ahead."

A letter seems a little thing, indeed. Just words written in long slim lines across a sheet of paper. But every letter, no matter how brief it may be, echoes the throb of some kindly heart. It is the heart of the letter, and the soul of the letter, that counts. That makes the letter priceless and worthwhile!"

The woman from the Middle West has given much of her life and effort to the writing of letters. She tells me that for seventy-two years she has written letters to friend and stranger alike. And now, looking back over the years, she feels that the effort has not been wasted. And I, passing her letter on to you, agree with her."

Her kindness is enshrined in many of the secret places of the world. And now she—an old woman—sends a word of advice, from her loving heart—to all of us.

"Write letters," she says, "and then—more letters!"—By Margaret E. Sangster, in Christian Herald.

THE HUNGRY MIND

He never reads a book nor cares To look beyond the day's affairs. The thoughts of dreamers, old or new,

He has no wish to wander through. Fill up his hours with merriment, And he will laugh and be content.

His stomach hungers oft for meat, And with delight his food he'll eat; Or should by chance he miss a meal, The loss if it be plainly felt;

Or, over-stuffed the night before, The morrow finds him back for more. Strange, is it not, he will take Such care for just his stomach's sake, Yet in his system cannot find The cravings of a hungry mind? He'll miss a meal, but not one pain Will warn him of a starving brain.

Oh, there are many like him here, Who follow pleasure far or near, And treat themselves to wine and bread,

And leave their intellects unfed. They'll fill their stomachs, praise the cook,

And then refuse the mind a book!

ON MAKING UP YOUR MIND

Lincoln once said that he noticed that a man was usually about as happy as he made up his mind to be. Happiness may easily be made a habit.

Some of the happiest people I know are those with the most troubles. I recently spent an evening with one of the happiest men I know and I listened to his story of fight and struggle and was amazed at what he had to carry through each day. The things he had to face daily would have flooded the ordinary man. And yet he always shows a happy front.

Here was a man who had made up his mind to be happy. There isn't a man or woman who is not able to go through ten times what they think they can, just the minute they decide that they will.

This is a pretty good world, after all, when you make up your mind that it is.

Making up your mind somehow clears away so much. The path before you then looks plain and not so rough. And it is half the battle won! We are bodies of influence no matter where we go. And we give out invisible waves of good or bad feeling to all with whom we come in contact. If we are making up good thoughts, I have no mind and I have no mind in our mind and if we are hourly resolving toward better things, those whom we touch with our influence know it at once.

Make up your mind to be happy. Make up your mind to bear the inevitable. Make up your mind to be yourself and to make the most of all that you have.

The Prodigal Son decided to arise and go to his father.

WAS NERVOUS WRECK FOLLOWING THE FLU

"It is indeed a blessing to possess such health as Tanlac has given me," recently said Mrs. Mary Barnett, R. F. D. No. 3, care of C. Lutz, Niota, Illinois.

"Two years ago, influenza left me almost a nervous wreck and so weak that I would have to go to bed for hours during the day. My stomach was terribly upset and I was never free from severe headaches and nervousness. I was bilious and constipated; my back felt like it would break, and I felt miserable all over.

"But since taking Tanlac, I haven't a single ailment. My appetite, digestion and nerves are perfect; I sleep peacefully and have such strength that I do my house-

Old clays were crude and muddy.

It is white, refined and dainty. Old

It is a beauty essential. No girl

The close vote, and the effect of her vote, is a matter of history. But there was no rift in the Pettangall family. Each was right in his or her own mind, and that settled it.

The Polish Cabinet, meeting in Warsaw, is considering means to limit the freedom of speech of President Wojciechowski, who recently made speeches in Posen that were interpreted as recommending an imperialistic policy. When Samuel Gompers, veteran president of the American Federation of Labor, attempted to address the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in Boston, hecklers broke up the meeting in disorder. George Bernard Shaw, dressing a Norwich, Eng., meeting of labor men, said he was an orator, Communist, who wished only a nice flat in the fashionable W. of London, a nice country estate, $10,000 pocket money and a motor car and he would be contented. Angelo Milton Ellison, protege of the late Edward F. Searles, aged Methuen, Mass., mill reclus, has sued in New York City courts for the $20,000,000 promised by Searles that he would receive the estate, but that he only $10,000. Sensational developments are promised.

ELLIOTT INJURED WHEN TRUCK WAS STRUCK IS NOW SAID

Kenneth Elliott, North Detroit Street, truck driver for the Eavey Wholesale Grocery Company, received several deep cuts and bruises when the machine he was driving for the company was struck by a Pennsylvania train at Morrow, O., Thursday morning. First word received in Indiana was to the effect that Elliott escaped unhurt from the accident.

He received a deep cut in the back of his head, one on his arm and numerous smaller cuts and bruises. The truck was completely demolished and Elliott narrowly escaped serious injury or death.

A truck from the local company went to the scene of the accident, and delivered Elliott's stock that was undamaged. Elliott was removed to his home here.

FARM PROGRESS

FARM BUREAU WILL AID LORAIN PEOPLE

Financial relief for Lorain and other stricken Eastern Ohio cities from the Greene County Farm Bureau will be discussed at the Executive Board meeting in the Farm Bureau office, Saturday afternoon.

Farm Bureau officials have received word from Governor Vic Donahey advising the co-operation of the farm bureau and Granges on the problem.

WHEAT SCAB SERIOUS

The most serious trouble Greene County farmers have experienced with wheat this year, according to County Agent Ford S. Prince, is with wheat scab, which has made serious inroads into the crop.

Wheat scab is a fungus disease which attacks the head of the wheat after the grain starts to form and causes the head to die. The amount of the disease discovered in 1924, in Greene County fields is variable and from two to twenty per cent of the heads have been found infected.

The disease, according to Mr. Prince is the same as corn root rot which has been in the corn fields locally for a number of years. Since the disease starts in the soil it is difficult to control. It reaches further stages some years than others, and is worse in cold and wet weather as has been experienced the past season. The recent rains and cool weather have been ideal for the development of the disease. The only remedies which are known to help in the control of the disease are the use of the fanning mill to fan out all the diseased grains and formaldehyde which kills the scab spores outside the wheat kernel.

TRUMBULL POPULAR

Trumbull wheat which was introduced in Greene County about five years ago has increased so rapidly that it now covers 50 per cent of Greene County's acreage.

The wheat is of a smooth variety, not bearded and has a white chaff. The wheat is selected from Old Fultz and is one of the best yielding wheats ever developed in Ohio. It stands the winter well and has a reasonably stiff straw and is an excellent milling and baking wheat.

A further acreage of wheat is anticipated in Greene County because of its good qualities.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

A well-rounded and beautifully developed pair of arms will go far to distinguish and to add to the personal charms of any woman, because of the fact that so many of the fashions of dress permit of the exposure of the arms. A small and undeveloped condition of these members has been a source of regret if not vexation or humiliation to thousands of women, for it is through the condition of the arms as a rule that one may measure or conceive the general bodily condition of the owner. People may do this unconsciously, but they nevertheless cannot escape forming an opinion from what they see as to whether you are well developed, emaciated or otherwise, wholly apart from those general lines of the figure, which in many cases are completely disguised by the artifices of dress.

The arms are used so extensively in most activities of life that one may easily find a multitude of servicable exercises.

It really does not matter so much just what exercises one takes, so long as they vigorously bring into play the muscles for both flexing and extending the arms.

As for the forearms and hands it may be said that exercises for these parts should consist chiefly of taking hold of things and developing what is called "grip," for which reason all apparatus exercises are valuable if one has the facilities convenient. The mere act of taking hold of a bar, above the head, and suspending the weight from it, will provide for the use of the grip, which really means the muscles of the forearm. The flexing of the hand in all directions at the wrist will also improve the forearm, involving all of the muscles of these parts not used in flexing and extending the fingers. Simple flexing movements of the wrist with dumb bells in the hands will answer the requirements of these muscles in most cases. Another is to lie face downward, with hands on the floor at the shoulders, push up to arms length with the upper body.

Pedestrians who continue to walk on the right side of the road are not only violating a state traffic rule but are endangering their own lives as well, say officials of the Greene County Automobile Club, in a warning issued Tuesday.

Many motorists are protesting against the increased number of pedestrians who continue to make use of the wrong side of the road they say in calling attention to a state rule requiring persons on foot to move against traffic rather than with it. "The reason for the ruling is obvious," it is said. "A pedestrian walking with his back to the traffic has little or no chance to protect himself, if for any reason the driver is unable to turn out to avoid him. But if he is facing the traffic he is in a better position to take care of himself if the driver should suddenly lose control of the machine and is unable to steer around him."

"The motorist's view of the road is especially limited at night, and it is practically impossible to see a person on the road until the car is upon him."

"Driving at night is extremely difficult, as the driver has his hands full trying to keep on the road, and avoiding accidents and collisions. It is because of this fact that motorists throughout the country are appealing to the pedestrians to assist them in trying to avoid accidents, by using the left side of the road."

COURT NEWS

SUES ON NOTE
The Prudential Insurance Company of America, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against John Fawcett, Mary Fawcett and The Xenia National Bank to recover $7,000 on a promissory note, for which the defendants are said to have delivered a mortgage deed in payment on certain land in Caesar Creek Township. The plaintiff alleges The Xenia National Bank and Clyde Sanderson, are said to have laid claim to some interest in the mortgaged premises.

The plaintiff asks judgment against the defendants for the sum of $7,000, and requests that the land be sold, the proceeds divided to insure payment, and that The Xenia National Bank and Clyde Sanderson be compelled to set up their claims, if any. W. R. Stuart and J. K. Williamson are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WIFE WANTS DIVORCE

BRINGING UP FATHER

LOVE-OR FAME?

by
VIOLET DARE
Author of "The Half-Time Wife"

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

DOROTHY LANE goes to New York to visit

PERSIS GRANT and try to break into the movies. She meets

LAWRENCE FRENCH, a young publicity man, and after a quarrel with Persis, goes to a girl's club with

SYLVIA STEARNS and lives

there. Through French she meets

JOHN SEWARD, a famous star, and is engaged as his leading lady in an independent production that he is making. Seward, known as "the great lover of the screen," falls in love with her. Realizing that she cared more for Lawrence French than for him, she is much upset.

Returning from a location trip early one morning, she sees Sylvia and Lawrence driving to the railway station together, and feels sure that they are eloping. But a note from Sylvia explains that she has an engagement with a stock company out of town and is leaving to fill it.

XXVII—TWO TELEPHONE CALLS

I WONDERED about so many things, as I stood there at the telephone, waiting for Lawrence French to call me again. I felt fairly sure that he cared a good deal for me. Since I had seen him in the taxi with Sylvia early that morning, I had known that I cared for him. And I admitted to myself that I'd rather have him ask me to marry him than have anything else in the world. Suddenly the phone bell rang. My heart seemed to be thumping in my throat as I answered it.

"Miss Lane?" The voice was not Lawrence's, and for a moment I was too surprised to answer it.

"This is Jack Gibbs, at the Gordon Agency," the voice went on. "You registered here some time ago. I've seen some of that picture you've been making with John Seward, and I've got a corking good part for you. Will you come down and talk it over?"

"Yes—of course—I'll come right away," I answered. I knew that I ought to feel glad over this new turn of events, but somehow I wasn't as happy as I'd have been if the call had been from Lawrence French.

He got me on the wire a moment later.

"Hello, Dodo," he cried, and his voice made me feel tingly all over. "This is Larry French, and I'm crazy to see you right away. How about having dinner together and dancing a bit afterward? I know a place where there's a marvelous view of the harbor—and I know a lot of things I want to tell you."

"Oh, Larry—I want to hear them, too," I told him, wishing my voice wouldn't sound so queer.

He laughed a little at that, and his voice was sort of shaky; I felt pretty sure that he felt just about as I did.

I dashed up the stairs two at a time, and got out every single dress I had and spread them around on the bed. I didn't have very many clothes, because, of course, I hadn't had much money to spend on such things, but mother had sent me all my last summer's things and two new dresses, and while we were working at Fort Lee I'd bought some more.

New York is an awfully discouraging place in summer, though, if you want to look smart. In winter it's different, because everybody wears coats, and the really beautiful frocks don't show, but in summer, when laundry bills are simply mountain high, it's quite a struggle to keep clean.

I had one darling dress, of very thin, dark-blue organdie. It was trimmed with little narrow, white frills, and had a big sash, and it was awfully becoming. But it had to be laundered every time it was worn, if it was to be kept crisp and fresh looking—if it didn't look perfectly fresh and newly done, it looked like a messy rag—you know those dresses!

The upkeep on that frock was charged me four dollars every time they washed it. The Chinaman at the corner charged me less, but he did it only about third as well, and left the blue part looking streaky. I'd tried doing it myself, in the laundry at the club, and it looked worse than when the Chinaman did it.

Luckily, I sent it to the French place just before I went to Cape Cod, so it looked simply wonderful that afternoon. I couldn't quite decide to wear it, because it was so awfully sweet and simple looking, and I thought maybe the agent would want me for a rather sophisticated role. I wondered if I ought not to wear a checked silk that I'd bought at a little shop on Broadway, that looked older and more dressed up, and had a hat that matched it.

But the afternoon was pretty warm, and I finally voted for the dark-blue one and white shoes and stockings and a big, floppy hat trimmed with maline and soft white flowers. Its lines were wonderful, and I knew I'd look nice, whether I was sophisticated or not.

Tomorrow—New Opportunities.
